GALATA TOWER

67-meter Byzantine tower and restaurant

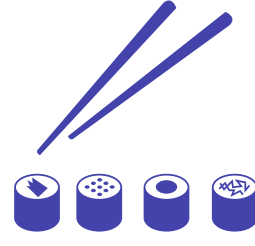

The Galata Tower is a medieval stone tower in the Galata/Karaköy quarter of Istanbul, Turkey, just to the north of the Golden Horn's junction with the Bosphorus. It is a high, cone-capped cylinder that dominates the skyline and offers a panoramic vista of Istanbul's historic peninsula and its environs.

There is a restaurant on its upper floors which have views of Istanbul and the Bosphorus. Galata Tower was included in World Heritage temporary list in Turkey by UNESCO in 2013.
